6. In addition to the 3 large garages in the northwest section of the depot, there were 5 or 6 other large garages in the southwest section and 3 garages in the southeast section of the depot. Between 250 and 300 box pontoons were stored in the northwest section of the area.

7. During the period from 10 to 12 June, the machinery for a work shop of the radio installation located in the former Mitsche and Guenther Factory on Ebert Ring, Rathenow, was dismantled and hauled to a factory in a wooded area north of Fuerstenwalde. The trucks which hauled the equipment [redacted] 25X1

[redacted] had been stationed at the Zietzen Kaserne in Rathenow but, after the shipment, remained at the factory in Fuerstenwalde. The machinery was assembled on prepared mounts during the period from 16 to 20 June. They included 12 large lathes, 24 small lathes, 18 milling machines, 1 vertical lathe, 14 drilling machines, 32 table drilling machines, 12 table lathes, 12 metal cutting saws, 6 planing machines for processing metal, 7 grinding machines, 1 locksmith's workshop, 1 hardening furnace, 4 vulcanizers. About 130 Soviet soldiers were employed at the repair shop. They were sent from Rathenow and were quartered in barracks situated in the factory area which was equipped with a kitchen. No German personnel was employed. Four trucks carrying plates and rounds of duraluminum arrived at the factory on 12 June. **

* [redacted] Comment. The information confirms the supply installation in that area. The motor vehicles seen belong to the 30FG, the Fourth Gds Lecz Army and to the IV Arty Corps.

 [redacted] Comment. It appears plausible that a new repair workshop may be established there.
